Same as gorilla glass. Marketing nonsense. Consider what you are attempting to portray to avoid coming across as incompetent.

Nothing just smoked the entire budget phone market. Wish it could do the same with the flagship market. Its midrange are also very good. Performance wise it's OK. Not for heavy gaming but it does a good job on most games.

It's a good question how repairable it is it? This is a big selling point of these types of phones. I attend/volunteer at a Repair cafe, and some electronic items are just designed in a way you can't repair or are too costly to repair, or both these phones have potential and encourage skill and others to repair. I have taken a few Xiaomi phones apart and swapped components, and successfully replaced a screen once. Still learning! Any way, I was looking at this for my Partner my son has the CMF phone 1

This phone is amazing, besides the great camera and battery backup, the most amazing thing in this phone is it's network reception, which is better than iphone and other phones. I always had to switch to 2G when I am in my office room due to poor reception, but this thing doesn't even have option to select 2G but for the first time I am able to talk in HD from inside my office room. Few days ago I went to a picnic spot which is a lake surrounded by mountains, even iphone didn't had network on airtel and jio there but my phone had on both the sims (airtel and jio).

Maker it smaller like the S25, keep the microSD and put on the flagship cameras

No, make it smaller than the iPhone SE 3!
